

Innovation: Try Something Crazy

A Dynamic, Hilarious, and Inspiring Keynote from the Masters of Odd Skills

What will your team learn from the man who created the world's only synchronized flowerpot drill team, invented and choreographed a trained slinky act, and can draw a portrait of your CEO while juggling at the same time?

Since 1990, former engineer Jack Kalvan has dedicated his life to creating innovative performances. In addition to more than 3,000 shows in over 200 cities around the world, Jack's juggling has won numerous awards and been featured on many TV shows.

Jack's wife, Jeri, is a former teacher of creative movement and innovative teaching methods.

'The Synchronized Flowerpot Drill Team

In this unique program, you'll see how they used a few basic principles to create one of the most successful variety acts working today.

Together, they'll share their creative methods to help you go beyond what's already been done. Not only will they show you how to think differently, they'll make it amazingly entertaining.

Awaken the creative genius inside you.

In addition to this presentation, Jack and Jeri offer a "hands-on" workshop to give your team an extra creative boost.
